STANDARD OIL CO. OF N.Y.

SAFEST and BEST

FROM now on, the Standard Oil Company of New York's best grade of refined oil will be sold by name—SOCONY (So-CO-ny) Kerosene Oil.

It was the Standard Oil Company which was responsible for making kerosene a safe and reliable fuel in the early days of the petroleum industry.

Today SOCONY, which is the trademarked name we have given to our best grade of kerosene, represents the last word in the refining of kerosene oil.

All kerosene is not alike by any means. And the good kind is enough better to be decidedly worth asking for. If you want the most heat from your stoves and heaters, most light from your lamps and lanterns, with complete freedom from smoke and odor, order SOCONY Kerosene by name.

Dealers who carry genuine SOCONY Kerosene Oil display the SOCONY sign in their windows. Look for this sign. It is the sign of quality and the world's best kerosene.

Mr. Holden was born in Otisfield, June 12, 1830, being the youngest son of Henry and Abigail Ray Holden and grandson of David Ray, one of the first settlers of Otisfield and an officer of the Revolutionary Army.

Mr. Holden came to Oxford nearly 50 years ago and engaged in teaming business. A few years later he sold out his team and started in a small way the manufacture of baskets. He was the originator of the Holden baskets, which have a large sale in Maine and other states.

He leaves one son, Walter E., who succeeds his father in the basket business; also one daughter, Mrs. Florence Brockway of Lewiston, Mass., one grandson, Otto B., and one great-grand daughter, Virginia Arline Holden; one brother-in-law, Moses Spiller of Norway.

PRUNE UP CAMPAIGN.

The "prune up" campaign conducted by the Director of Farm Demonstrations in Oxford County will soon be in active operation.

The best authorities teach that the pruning should be done in the spring, beginning as soon as the severe winter weather is past and the sap begins circulation.

We should have a definite plan of operation when we start into the orchard to prune. We know that a limb never gets any higher from the ground than it was when it started. With this fixed in our minds we must determine whether we are to have a high or a low headed orchard.

There are two types of heads; one having a central leader from which we allow two sets of branches to form, one above the other with a center stock running straight up. The other is the more open head. In up. The former is apt to allow the strong-growing branches to choke back the weaker and all damage themselves in the struggle for existence.

This brings the necessity of pruning and thinning or, rather, the necessity of training the trees to shape themselves that they will ripen the largest quantity of first quality fruit. The second type, the low open head, is the one that seems to more nearly meet the requirements of Maine conditions. This is formed by cutting out the central stock or leader and inducing a stronger growth of the lateral branches. By this method we allow the sun and air to reach every part of the tree.

Trees are really living things and are affected by everything we do to them. We cannot remove a single branch without modifying the growth of the whole tree, and he who prunes intelligently will surely get results. There are no rules that can be laid down that will apply in all cases, as no two trees are alike in growth, but there are a few general principles that are applicable to all orchards.

First, remove all dead and crossing branches, keep the top open to admit sun and air and also that you may reach every leaf and fruit with the spray material. Second, that the tree may be well balanced and be able to carry the largest possible amount of fruit-bearing wood that the roots can feed. Avoid forks that will split apart under a load and keep the branches growing into the prevailing wind.

We are planning to give an illustrated lecture on orchard management before every garage in Oxford County where apples are grown commercially, and hope to hold a pruning demonstration in each community.

—G. A. Yeaton.

PASTEURIZATION OF MILK.
"During the past few years the advancement of pasteurization has been rapid. Not only have creameries taken it up, but small dairy dealers and even dairy farmers have accepted the process. The United States Department of Agriculture reports that 10 years ago only five per cent of milk supply of New York City was pasteurized. At the present time 80 per cent of the milk supply of Boston is pasteurized. Undoubtedly within the next five or ten years the milk market of our Maine cities will demand pasteurization.

Some of the advantages of pasteurization are:
"First—It makes clean milk safe.
"Second—It increases the keeping quality of milk.
"Third—It destroys disease producing organisms such as produce diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid fever, and septic sore throat.
"Fourth—It eliminates many undesirable taints in milk caused by cows eating weeds, etc.
"Fifth—It controls the souring of cream by destroying undesirable bacteria and leaving the lactic acid bacteria active.
"Sixth—It enables the butter maker to make a more uniform quality of butter.
"Seventh—It increases the keeping quality of butter.
"Eighth—It enables a closer skimming of the milk if pasteurized previous to separation.

"The chief objection and disadvantage of pasteurization is the cost and in view of the fact that very few of our dairy farmers are equipped and additional expense is involved.
"It has been determined, however, that when the pasteurizer has once been set up it costs three cents to pasteurize 1000 pounds of milk figuring soft coal at $4 per ton.
"Even if the ceiling of the dairy is of fence poles covered with hay, even if the floor and walls of the dairy are not as clean as they should have been, it is possible to produce clean milk by being careful. The sanitary production of milk is readily characterized by four words, viz: Carefulness, cleanliness, order and covered, and the last three come under the first which is most important, carefulness.

"As the introduction of the separator proved to be a profitable investment because it increased the production of cream and butter, so, I believe, the pasteurizer will be a profitable investment because of the improvement in the sanitary quality of dairy products.
"The separators paid for themselves and paid a profit for their owners. On the other hand, pasteurizers must be paid for by some other means, although they will save something by enabling closer skimming.
"When improvements are made in the quality and especially in the sanitary quality of other products, who pays the price? In every case the consumer pays for improvement in any commodity.
"Then let the consumer of milk pay the price of improving the sanitary quality of milk, the commodity which is so necessary as a food. As expense in buying, setting up and operating the pasteurizer is the chief objection to pasteurization, it is useless to accept the process unless the consumer is willing to co-operate with the producer by paying a higher price for milk of improved quality.
